In the "main", a function "delete_message" is called to delete the secret after it is extracted. What about a breakpoint to freeze the time?